

Amy M. Sitapati, M.D., Clinical Professor of Medicine, Executive Director of the Institute for Applied Health Intelligence, and Chief Medical Information Officer for Population Health at UC San Diego Health

Dr. Sitapati focuses on advancing healthcare through artificial intelligence, clinical informatics, and data-driven innovation. Her work integrates predictive analytics, digital health technologies, and precision medicine to improve clinical decision-making, healthcare delivery, and patient outcomes. She is passionate about translating emerging technologies into practical solutions that enhance equitable patient care and advance the common good.